KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

You should not invest in this Fund if you do not understand or are not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

Liquidity Risk:	The possibility for an investor to experience losses due to the inability to sell or convert assets into cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a price that could result in a loss. This may be caused by low trading volume due to different reasons such as securities with small or few outstanding issues, absence of buyers and/or sellers (limited buy/sell activity) or underdeveloped capital market.
Credit Risk / Default Risk:	The possibility for an investor to experience losses due to a borrower's failure to pay principal and/or interest in a timely manner on instruments such as bonds, loans, or other forms of fixed income security which the borrower issued. This inability of the borrower or counterparty to make good on its financial obligations may have resulted from adverse changes in its financial condition thus, lowering credit quality of the security, and consequently lowering the price (market/price risk) which contributes to the difficulty in selling such security.
Reinvestment Risk:	The possibility of having lower returns or earnings when funds mature and are reinvested. Investors in the UITF who redeem and realize their gains run the risk of reinvesting their funds in an alternative investment outlet with lower yields. Similarly, the UIT fund manager is faced with the risk of not being able to find better yielding alternative investment outlets as some of the securities in the fund matures.
Foreign Exchange Risk:	The possibility for an investor to experience losses due to fluctuations in foreign exchange rates. The exchange rates depend upon a variety of global and local factors, e.g. interest rates, economic performance, and political developments.
Country Risk:	The possibility for an investor to experience losses arising from investments in securities issued by/in foreign countries due to the political, economic and social structures of these countries. There are risks in foreign investments due to the possible internal and external conflicts, currency devaluations, foreign ownership limitations and tax increases of the foreign country involved which are difficult to predict but must be taken into account in making such investments.
Other Risks:	Your participation in the UITFs may be further exposed to the risk of any actual or potential conflicts of interest in the handling of in-house or related party transactions by Metrobank. These transactions may include own-bank deposits; purchase of own-institution or affiliate obligations (stocks, mortgages); purchase of assets from or sales to own institution, directors, officers, subsidiaries, affiliates or other related interests/parties; or purchases or sales between fiduciary/managed accounts.

The Fund invests only in high-credit quality assets which are evaluated using a rigorous internal scoring model required under the Trustee's accreditation process and BSP regulations. Internal risk limits and position limits together with regulatory exposure limits are monitored, reviewed and strictly adhered to on a daily basis. The Fund may also use financial derivatives solely for hedging risk exposures.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

As the U.S. economy continues to defy expectations of slowing down (for now), the recent pause by the Fed could be the “long pause” we have been waiting for.

The Federal Reserve (the Fed) maintained interest rates at 5.25% to 5.5%, a 22-year high. However, they left the possibility open for another rate hike in December. Fed Chair Jerome Powell mentioned that the rise in long-term yields is constraining, these may not be high enough to bring inflation down to the 2% target. He also indicated that rate cuts are not currently under consideration.

The increase in long-term yields, known as bear steepening (long-ends rising faster than the short-end), had significant effects on various asset classes, reflecting the "higher for longer" narrative in economic data. Third-quarter 2024 growth came in at 4.9% quarter-over-quarter, the highest level since the fourth quarter of 2021, driven by robust consumer spending. Personal consumption surged from 0.8% to 4.0%, while unemployment remained at 3.8%. However, despite strong consumption in retrospect, leading economic indicators such as Manufacturing and Services PMI continued to show weakening in September, with readings of 49.8 and 50.1, respectively.

The elevated long-term yields will continue to test the resilience of the economy and consumers in the coming months even as indications of delinquencies rising, debt refinancing is coming due, and household savings declining.

Geopolitical uncertainties heightened following the gruesome attack by the Hamas militant group based in Gaza on nearby towns inside Israel. This placed the Middle East region on elevated alert amidst fears of an escalating tensions that could draw Iran and the US in the middle of the conflict. Gold prices, reached a high of USD2,006 and closed the month with a 7.32% increase.

In October, the yield on U.S. 10-year Treasury bonds closed at 4.93%, marking a 36-basis point increase and reaching the highest level since 2007. The negative spread between the U.S. 10-year and 2-year narrowed from 47bps to 16bps, suggesting that a pending recession. However, similar to the previous month, this movement was accompanied by a painful bear steepening as longer-term yields rose under the 'soft landing' narrative. It's important to note that an inverted yield curve signals an impending recession, while the un-inversion of the yield curve signals the onset of a recession. The risk-off sentiment in various markets prompted a 0.46% month-over-month strengthening of the U.S. dollar, closing at USD106.66.

The fund is capitalizing on favorable dollar time deposit rates, offering a 180-day yield of 5.60%.
