KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

You should not invest in this Fund if you do not understand or are not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

Market/Price Risk:	The possibility for an investor to experience losses due to changes in the market prices of stocks/equities. It refers to the portfolio's exposure to marked-to-market valuation due to market price fluctuations of the stocks/equities.
Liquidity Risk:	The possibility for an investor to experience losses due to the inability to sell or convert assets into cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a price that could result in a loss. This may be caused by low trading volume due to different reasons such as securities with small or few outstanding issues, absence of buyers and/or sellers (limited buy/sell activity) or underdeveloped capital market.
Credit Risk / Default Risk:	The possibility for an investor to experience losses due to a borrower's failure to pay principal and/or interest in a timely manner on instruments such as bonds, loans, or other forms of fixed income security which the borrower issued. This inability of the borrower or counterparty to make good on its financial obligations may have resulted from adverse changes in its financial condition thus, lowering credit quality of the security, and consequently lowering the price (market/price risk) which contributes to the difficulty in selling such security.
Foreign Exchange Risk:	The possibility for an investor to experience losses due to fluctuations in foreign exchange rates. The exchange rates depend upon a variety of global and local factors, e.g. interest rates, economic performance, and political developments.
Country Risk:	The possibility for an investor to experience losses arising from investments in securities issued by/in foreign countries due to the political, economic and social structures of these countries. There are risks in foreign investments due to the possible internal and external conflicts, currency devaluations, foreign ownership limitations and tax increases of the foreign country involved which are difficult to predict but must be taken into account in making such investments.
Index Tracking Risk:	The possibility for the Fund not being able to achieve a level of return that closely mirrors the index being tracked due to operational and fund management expenses.
Other Risks:	Your participation in the UITFs may be further exposed to the risk of any actual or potential conflicts of interest in the handling of in-house or related party transactions by Metrobank. These transactions may include own-bank deposits; purchase of own-institution or affiliate obligations (stocks, mortgages); purchase of assets from or sales to own institution, directors, officers, subsidiaries, affiliates or other related interests/parties; or purchases or sales between fiduciary/managed accounts.

The Fund invests only in assets which are evaluated using a rigorous internal scoring model required under the Trustee's accreditation process and BSP regulations. Internal risk limits and position limits together with regulatory exposure limits are monitored, reviewed and strictly adhered to on a daily basis. The Fund may also use financial derivatives solely for hedging risk exposures.

THE UIT FUND IS NOT A DEPOSIT AND IS NOT INSURED BY THE PHILIPPINE DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION (PDIC).

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

The fund decreased by 2.98% in November. Weak growth in Europe has become a perennial concern, prompting the ECB to shift to a dovish stance. Emerging risk involves pro-America policies under Trump 2.0 which may add to Euro-zone growth concerns.

The European Central Bank (ECB) kept rates steady at 3.25% in November as inflation fears diminish and the outlook for the region's growth worsens. ECB policymakers could face exaggerated growth concerns with the Republican sweep in the U.S. General Elections. The "America First" mantra of President-elect Donald Trump will bring challenges to European exporters and manufacturers. Incoming U.S. policies could turn into trade wars, and retaliation from other nations may be detrimental to the global economy.

While CPI year-over-year remained unchanged at 2.0%, producer prices, a leading indicator of CPI, declined further by 3.4% year-over-year, hinting that forward price pressures are likely to have a downward bias rather than an upward one. Eurozone GDP expanded by 0.4% in Q3 2024, but the regional powerhouse, Germany, continues to struggle in its manufacturing sector. Consumer confidence weakened to -13.7 from -12.5, despite retail sales growing 2.9% year-over-year. The latest PMI readings indicated a slowdown in the eurozone economy, as manufacturing remained in contraction, printing 46, while services signaled minute improvements at 51.6. Disinflation in CPI and PMI continues to signal incoming policy easing.

The Stoxx 50 was mostly sideways with a downward bias for the month, as dollar strength becomes a restrictive instrument to European growth. Easing monetary policy and increased money supply can have a positive impact as seasonal risk-taking begins. Europe continues to be a mean-reverting trade given emerging concerns.

With the conclusion of the U.S. elections, sentiment has pointed to strong and resilient growth for the U.S., while the incoming pro-America policies may create inflationary and stagflationary pressures for non-U.S. countries. A "K-Shaped" global economy may develop given recent developments, skewing trends and dependencies from the globalization norms set during the 2000s unwind. Commodities continue to price in deflation, U.S. equities are pricing in a "no landing," while non-U.S. countries brace for inflationary or stagflationary pressures.
